Collaborative Content Management

Overlook, overly complex collaboration has been commoditized and commercialized. People want the simplicity and familiarity of the tools they use every day - searching in Google, reading in Wikipedia, writing in a blog, finding people in LinkedIn, being notified in a simple RSS reader, viewing friends' activities in Facebook and bringing this all together in Google. Alfresco Share delivers all of this functionality for enterprise users, projects and teams.

Alfresco Share Features

Alfresco Share is built on the Alfresco enterprise-class document repository and delivers out-of-the-box collaborative content management. It simplifies capturing, sharing and retrieval of information across virtual teams. Teams or project members can rapidly find relevant content, experts, look at past or similar projects and keep on top of any relevant changes to make them more efficient.

Document Library

Simply bulk-upload project content and let others choose content via thumbnails and view it in a Flash viewer - allowing users to view content regardless of the originating application or product version (e.g. Microsoft Office 2007). Simply search rich meta-data of document properties and tags. Allow access via an RSS feed.

Search

Teams can search for people and experts to contribute to their projects as easily as searching for content.

Activity Feeds

Provide users with updates on what is new or changing in a project - essentially providing the "who, what, when and where" for content that is added, edited or commented on, as well as new team members and official calendar dates.

Create Virtual Teams

Creates the right virtual team for projects and communities including both internal and external members.
